

November 8, 2013

To Whom It May Concern,

I have worked at the Three Languages Preschool for the past two years as both a teacher, and in an administrative capacity. In these two years I have had a once in a lifetime opportunity at the preschool to teach as well as learn from the children. I have watched the children grow and utilize the English Language in their daily life. I couldn't have asked for a more meaningful experience.

In my time at the Three Languages Preschool I had the chance to work with many different teachers, administrators, children and parents from multiple cultural backgrounds. This diversity is well reflected in the student body, and their learning experience. I feel that as a teacher, I too have been able to grow and develop from my time at the school.

Three Languages Preschool provides young children with a multi-cultural, multi-lingual early education. Children have the opportunity to embrace a variety of cultures and experiences from their teachers as well as fellow peers. At the school, children foster independence as well as learning how to function as a group regardless of cultural differences. Children begin to associate a person with their spoken language and all interactions begin to develop in the teacher's native language. This phenomenon alone was one of the most rewarding aspects of working in this position.

As a new teacher arriving with no previous knowledge of the school, and never having visited Poland, I was very impressed with the accommodations and assistance provided to me. The school provided adequate housing and assisted in the every day accommodations to make my new home feel like home. The school also provides teachers with after-hour extra curricular activities free of charge, such as yoga and Polish language lessons. I cannot stress enough how much of an experience my career with the school has been.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Rebecca Cloutier', with a long, sweeping horizontal line extending to the right.

Rebecca Cloutier